

From announcements heard this weekend, it would seem that their 7-day, 24-hour operation will be postponed beyond 24th September, and most presenters are saying that they will be back "next weekend". In the meantime, the station is announcing a Listener's Night-out to be held at the WINDSOR CASTLE HOTEL, opposite Orrell Park railway station, on 13th October 1984. It will be interesting to see what effect a Saturday night has on attendance, and also the "Pub v Club" choice of venue

 Wayne Scott is apparently still on holiday, and his stand-ins are Andy Sloan(Mondays), Alan Ross (Tuesdays) and T.P.Toppick (Sundays). The station hopes to keep to this schedule for the next couple of weeks, when they intend to change over to 24-hour operation.

CHANNEL FIVE 1242kHz: 30, Rice Lane, Egremont, Wallasey, Merseyside L44 ODG

This station seems to have signed-on shortly after noon on Sunday, with Stuart Davies doing a two hour show from Noon to 2pm. From 2pm reception of apparently continuous music was very intermittent with many short breaks, and the following schedule was not determined. However, the station could not be found by 8:45pm.

RADIO ATLANTIS 102.7MHz: 150, Rake Lane, Wallasey, Merseyside L45 1JW

Various reports say that this station has been heard in the evenings, but it was not noted here until Sunday. It seems to have signed-on at Noon, and the format appears to have been "tests" using tapes of previously broadcast programmes. Heard were Steve Tyler and Roy Stannier. They appear to have closed-down some time around 8pm, and were not heard at 8:45pm check.

MERSEYLAND ALTERNATIVE RADIO 819kHz: PO Box No.9, Moreton, Wirral, Merseyside.

Contrary to last week's report, this station appears to be "testing" seven days per week, Noon to 6pm, and not weekends only. They were heard on Tuesday and Wednesday using 975kHz, but by Saturday they had moved to the "announced" 819kHz. The format seems to be largely taped continuous music, or continuous music with regular IDs and announcements. The station is due to open at 7am on Monday 1st October.

RADIO ELENORE 1179kHz: 16, Stockbridge Street, Anfield, Liverpool L5 6PB.

This station seems to have reverted to its normal format this weekend, ie Friday 10am-Midnight, Saturday 10am-Midnight and Sunday 10am-6pm. The signal on Friday and Saturday was well modulated and back up to full strength, but the DJ line-up and close-down times were not noted. On Sunday, they opened up at 10am, but disappeared shortly after 11am, and were not heard again. Later, on Radio Merseywaves, Bert Williams said that Elenore have been having some bad luck over the last few weeks. This week's problems were announced as being due to a change of transmitter location and "a shortage of aerial hardware that is difficult to obtain".
